

FoodWorks offers Right of Reply 03 October 2014

FoodWorks (www.foodworks.co.nz) has launched a new, independent “Right of Reply” service to enable individuals and organisations in the food industry to have their responses published online whenever inaccurate stories appear in the media. Any company, organisation or individual who feels that a food product or food-related issue has been unfairly represented in the New Zealand media is invited to write and submit an article to FoodWorks to correct the facts and the item will be published online in a dedicated section on the FoodWorks website, called “Right Of Reply - Setting the Record Straight on Food”.
